Greenleaf Performing Arts Academy

Currently enrolling for Spring 2023 classes, Greenleaf was founded by Evi Wheeler as a holistic, Christian, and non-competitive performing arts academy.

“When Greenleaf was founded in 1999, we desired to offer a unique arts experience to children and families based on a worldview of nurture, delight, and growth for individuals and communities. Our goal is to follow the teachings of Jesus and honor the Holy Spirit’s work in and through the performing arts. While we understand that not all of our students or teachers will share our core beliefs, they are essential to our company identity and are Greenleaf’s most distinguishing characteristic. We are kingdom people living to see God’s glory revealed in His children! We don’t do this perfectly, so we also ask for grace and patience from you as we learn and grow alongside you.” – Evi Wheeler

Snowkiting

Snowkiting is exactly what it sounds like: You’re pulled across the snow by a kite. However, the kite looks more like a small parachute and functions like a sail. Put on your helmet and strap into a harness that's connected to a kite. The wind will propel you across snow and ice.

New England lakes, which often freeze over during winter, are some of the best places to try the sport. Current hot spots include Lake Winnepesaukee and Chocorua Lake in New Hampshire, Moosehead Lake in Maine and Lake Champlain in Vermont.

Other locations of snowkiting include Eagle’s Nest Lake in New Mexico, Skyline in Utah, Park City in Utah, and Jackson Hole in Wyoming.

Nearest to us is Dillon, Colorado that supports snowkiting.
